

The background of the image features a stylized representation of the CMS detector. It consists of several concentric white arcs on the left side, representing the detector's cylindrical structure, and several thick, sweeping white curves that arc across the right side, representing the muon chambers. The entire graphic is set against a solid black background.

CMS

Compact Muon Solenoid